Holmes announces Vint Center for Nursing

Holmes Community College announced recently a $1 million donation, which will establish the Lottie Ruth Vint, RN, and William A. Vint, M.D., Scholarship in their memory.

This scholarship was established by Mary Vint and is designated for residents of Grenada County, who are enrolled in the Associate Degree Nursing Program and attending the Grenada Center location of the school.

"I have said for many years that I was going to establish this scholarship and decided that, if I was going to see the nurses benefit from it, I would go ahead and establish it at this point in my life," Mary Vint said.

"We are humbled that the Vint family thought so highly of our Nursing program at Holmes and the Grenada county residents to make this commitment," said Dr. Jim Haffey, Grenada Center Vice President. "This will change the lives of the students who are balancing a career, family, and school."

The Vint Scholarship will provide additional support to students through simulation-based lab training, explained Nursing Simulation and Skills Lab Coordinator Gwendolyn Sprayberry Lordeon.

"The new lab will provide a safe environment to practice clinical procedures and make critical decisions quickly in an effort to garner nursing student's success and provide World Class nursing care for our community," Lordeon said.

Recipients must be nontraditional students, have a financial need, and preference is given to students demonstrating an intention to practice nursing within the State of Mississippi for at least two years immediately following graduation. For the fall 2013 semester, 25 scholarships were awarded.

"The scholarship has helped ease the stress of worrying about how they would afford books and other critical supplies they need to make it financially for two years," said Associate Degree Nursing Director Dr. Lawanda Herron. "The feedback from our inaugural group of recipients has been amazing."

Brown named Humanities Teacher of the Year for '14

Vicksburg native and Holmes Community College English Instructor Jessica Wahl Brown has been named the 2013 Humanities Teacher of the Year for Holmes Community College.

As part of her award, Brown presented "The Literary Runway" on Tuesday afternoon in McDaniel Auditorium on the Goodman Campus of Holmes Community College. The presentation explored how fashion is used in literature and film. She took two books William Faulkner's Sanctuary and Margaret Atwood's The Edible Woman along with the movie The Devil Wears Prada based on the book by Lauren Weisberger and explained how the main characters used their own styles to serve their own purposes, which was to cover up insecurities and to compete with others.

Brown discussed Temple Drake and Ruby Lamar from Sanctuary, Marian McAlpin and Ainsley Tewce from The Edible Woman, and Andy Sacks and Emily Charleton from the The Devil Wears Prada. While these women's stories take place in different regions and time periods, they all feel dissatisfied with their own lives and use their clothing to express that dissatisfaction.

Brown grew up loving all things involving literature and fashion, thanks in large part to her mother, an avid reader and shoe enthusiast. She attended University of Mississippi where she received a Bachelor of Arts in English and History. While there, she enjoyed studies of Mississippi, from its literature to its history to its music.

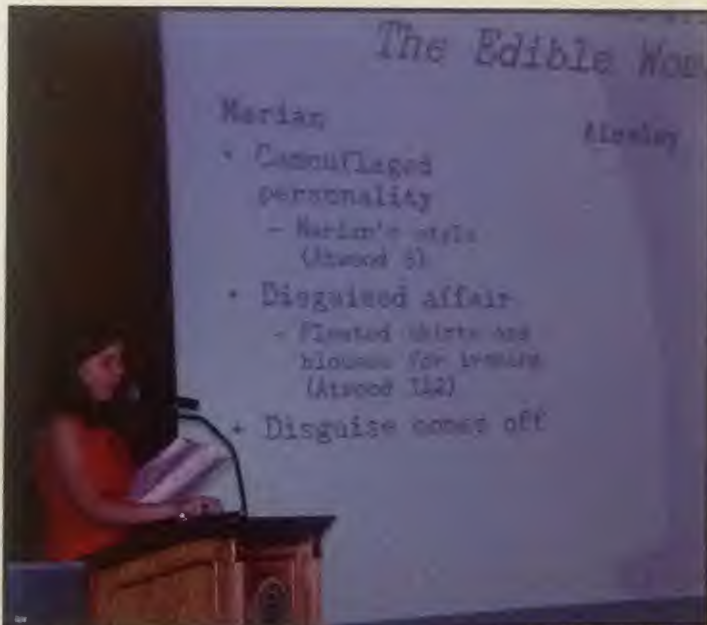

Two weeks after graduating, Jessica married her college sweetheart, Jeffrey Brown, and the two found themselves in Goodman, where Jeffrey took a job as assistant band director at Holmes Community College. Not even a month after moving to Goodman, Jessica received an offer to teach English at Central Holmes Christian School where she found her calling as a teacher.

Within a year, Jessica enrolled in graduate school at Mississippi State University where she received her Master of Arts degree in English. It was there she discovered an enthusiasm for contemporary literature, particularly the works of Margaret Atwood.

Jessica began teaching in the English Department at Holmes Community College in 2006 and is currently in her eighth year there. During her time at Holmes, she has taught developmental English courses, English Composition I and II, and British Literature.

When Jessica is not teaching or when J. Crew is not offering a sample sale, she enjoys hanging out at her home in Canton with Jeffrey; their two-year-old son, Vincent Jude; and their first "child", Weezy-cat. Brown was recognized at the state level in Jackson in the spring at the state Humanities Council annual meeting.

Goodman SkillsUSA sees 33 place in state competition

Thirty-three Holmes Community College students from the Goodman Campus placed in the SkillsUSA Mississippi State Championship yesterday at the Kirk Fordice Equine Center and Trade Mart in Jackson. Holmes had six first places, three second places and four third places in the categories offered for competition.

First place finishes included: Quiz Bowl, Austin McCrory, Adam Alexander, Sarah Donnelly, Trey Ferrell and Alex Frank; Medical Terminology, Cierra Wilder; Practical Nursing, Jabari Terrell; Chapter Business Procedure, Arrion Hood, Brian Holley, Marquisha Nelson, Demarion Wingard, Corey McBride and Marc Anthony Smith; Extemporaneous Speaking, Walter Peeples; and Major Appliance Technology, Michael Ward.

Second place finishes included: Job Interview, Donald Winters, Jr.; Opening and Closing, Demetria Fletcher, Jennifer Peacock, Sontana Allen, Megan McCrory, Janet Stewart, Shateadria Malone and Shytiara Johnson; Plumbing, Hunter Wafford; and Nail Care, Kelsey Cather and Artesha Simmons.

Third place finishes included: Team Works, Cody McCrory, Matthew Moorehead, Adam Latham and Michael Webster; Sheet Metal, Cole Amason; Collision Repair, Hunter Threadgill; and Cosmetology, Belinda Simmons.

Goodman Campus SkillsUSA advisor Heather Mooney received the Advisor of the Year Award as well.

"I really wasn't expecting to receive this," Mooney said. "We have worked very hard each year to promote our programs and our students. The students have bought in to what we are trying to do, and I appreciate the state for recognizing our hard work."

All first place finishers have the opportunity to go to the SkillsUSA National Competition in Kansas City, Mo. June 23-28.

Grenada, Kosciusko sees building projects evolve

Community support for two recent building projects at the Attala Educational Center and at the Grenada Center have made it possible for Holmes Community College to add to its class offerings in those areas.

At Kosciusko, crews began clearing the area in front of the facility and making it more appealing and office space has been built on the front of the building.

"I'm excited about this project, because I'm excited about the support we are always given here in Attala County and Kosciusko," Holmes Community College President Dr. Glenn F. Boyce said. "The support we receive from this community is amazing," Boyce said. Boyce credited the Attala County Board of Supervisors with the initial idea to build a campus in the area. They had the vision and came to me and said they wanted to have this over here. There aren't too many supervisors that come to me and offer to give me money. They really had a great vision for what this could become."

Boyce confirmed the facility would include classrooms and nursing labs, a media center, a board meeting room (which could hold 10 to 12 people), computer labs, an entrepreneurial center with several incubators, a workforce training space and a community meeting room (with a capacity of 175). "I want that community room to be used by the community," Boyce said. "I could see us bringing in some major speakers and having a speaker night. We will have some musical performances in there also, but we are a little limited in what we can do in that space because the ceilings are so low." When discussing possible programs for the campus, Boyce said the GED program and several medical programs would be included. He also mentioned welding, industrial maintenance, truck driver training and a handy man academy as workforce training programs. Boyce said an offshore training program is possible for the location.

"We are making a significant in-kind investment as well," Boyce said. "We are working hard to get it ready as soon as we can. Our goal is to open in August. We will be in by the fall for sure, and we will be full force by January of 2015."

Holmes received a $1.6 million grant from the Department of Commerce's Economic Development Administration for the renovation of the Milwaukee Tool building and subsequent move of the Attala Educational Center to that facility. The Attala Educational Center, a 5,000 square foot facility currently located on Highway 12, will be relocated to 76,000 square foot facility on Jefferson Street.

The Grenada Center's $8.5 million dollar facility began being utilized in Spring 2013 and has quickly made its mark at the Grenada Center. The building features three biology labs, a computer lab, seven faculty offices, an audio-visual room and a stepped conference room. The facility will also house the physical therapy assistant program.

Interior design program makes move to Ridgeland

Holmes Community College has designed a curriculum to appeal to students who want a career based in artistry and engineering.

Starting in the fall, the Ridgeland campus will offer a program in interior design, a field that takes students well beyond what colors or styles look good together.

Students accepted into the interior design program can receive a one-year certificate that will take them directly into the work force or take additional coursework to earn a two-year Associate of Arts (AAS) degree. The program's design affords the graduates of the one-year certificate the opportunity to work while completing their AAS online.

"Holmes is the first in the state to offer an interior design degree on the community college level," said instructor Heather Mooney, who designed the curriculum from the ground up, just like the buildings students will work with in the program.

The course work, which is part of the Engineering Technology Department, will include instruction for 17-18 credit hours each semester and give students the needed skills in computer applications, drafting and graphic techniques. Students will follow classroom work with a one-semester internship, giving them on-the-job experience before they enter the working world.

The aim of the program is to give students the skills needed to apply artistic principles and techniques to the professional planning, designing, equipping and furnishing of residential and commercial spaces.

"Students can take their certificates and work for retailers, hotels, design companies, architecture firms and hospitals," Mooney said. "Designers can draw buildings up to 5,000 square feet without an architectural stamp."

Mooney said that the possibilities for work in this field are more wide-ranging than people may realize. To prepare for the many opportunities afforded by the work force, students will design layouts, learn building codes and determine how the elements of a building or space should function.

Interior design does require that students possess a creative bent. However, natural-born drawing talents aren't a prerequisite, Mooney said. "I can teach you to draw on a computer, but you need that spark of creativity. That creativity comes into play as students establish their own sense of interior design style through the program."

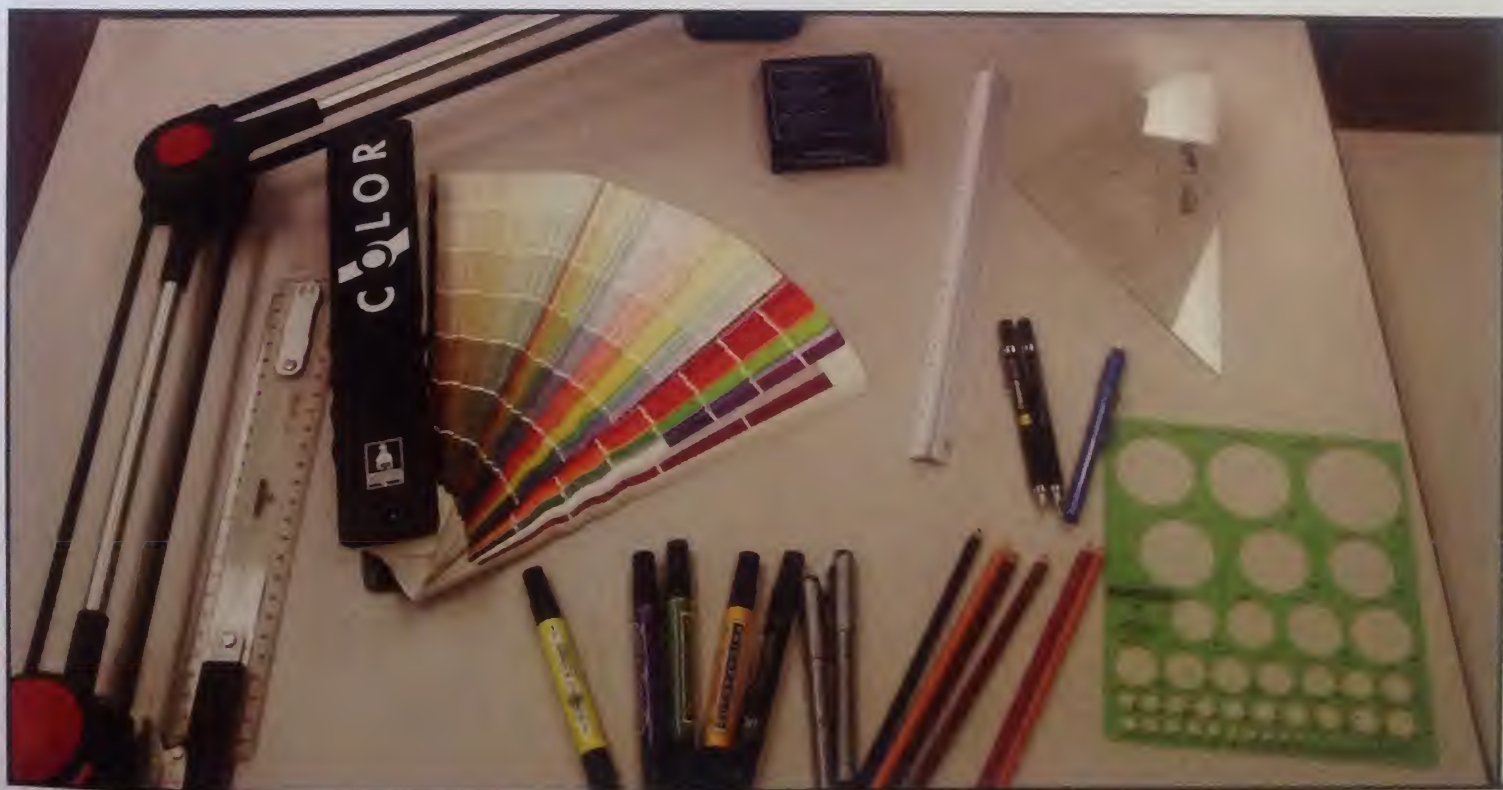

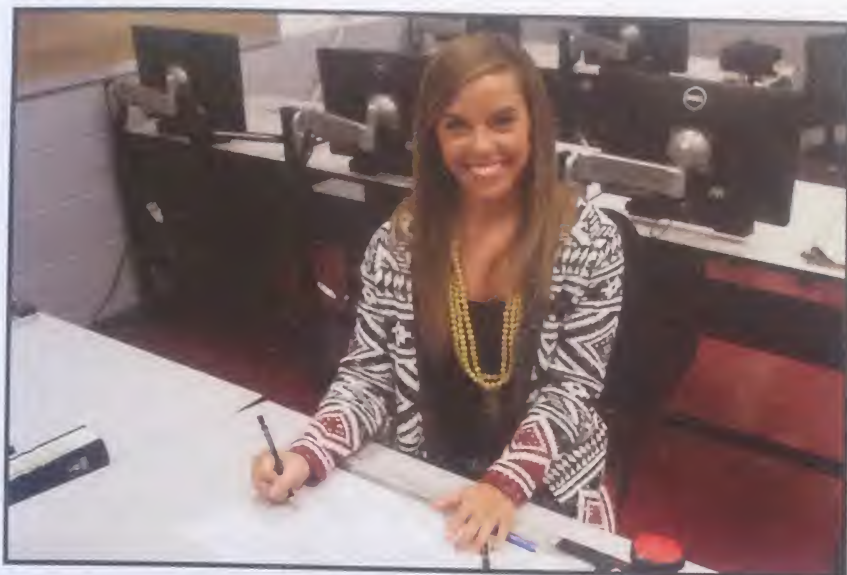

Through the summer internship, students will gain the confidence needed to sell themselves and their sense of style to potential employers.

The Interior Design Program will be capped at 20 students. The program is one that is applicable for students coming to Holmes directly out of high school or for older students looking to switch careers or re-enter the work force.

"With today's strong emphasis on design, remodeling and renovation, we believe that the Interior Design Technology program at Ridgeland will fill a niche for creative students who desire to work in the field of interior design," commented Sherrie Cheek, Vice President of Career/Technical Programs at Holmes. "The support from local businesses and designers has been quite impressive, and we expect such partnerships to both strengthen and expand."

For further information about the program, contact Mooney at hmooney@holmescc.edu.

Critical care paramedic program at Ridgeland

A pilot program on the Ridgeland Campus of Holmes Community College is defining the enhanced level of care that the state's first critical care paramedics will need to do their jobs and save more lives.

The 2013 Mississippi Legislature passed a law allowing for the licensure of critical care paramedics, and the first class began in January in the semester-long program. The hours these paramedics spend in classrooms now will allow critically ill patients to receive more advanced care as they are rushed to the hospital.

"Holmes is laying the groundwork for the state so there will be a good quality course for other colleges in the state to follow," said Mark Galtelli, the college's program director of emergency medical technology. "We are honing a written curriculum to put it into practice in the field."

The inaugural class of 14 is mostly comprised of paramedics who currently fly on medical helicopters across the state. Students have come from Sardis, Eupora, Vicksburg, Meadville and cities close to the Ridgeland campus.

"These paramedics are already actively taking care of sick patients and this course will only enhance their capabilities," Galtelli said. "They will treat the sickest of the sick."

Certain procedures, like the insertion of chest tubes that can now only be done in a hospital, can be started in route by certified critical care paramedics, saving precious minutes for patients, he said.

Stephen Houck of Gluckstadt, a paramedic since 2006, has worked for University of Mississippi Medical Center's Air Care for three years. "This program gives us a wider scope of practice. It allows us to give patients more advanced care and more advanced drugs before they get to the hospital. We will be able to give all pharmacological drugs that nurses give but outside of the hospital."

The enhanced level of care and procedures that certified critical care paramedics can provide to patients in transport "can make a huge difference in a patient's life," Houck said. "The scope of practice is one of the most advanced in the country."

"It's as advanced as you can get," Galtelli said. "It's highly technical and highly repetitious."

Paramedics must have three years of experience to enter the course. Those who complete the classroom work and 90 hours of clinical work will have to pass national certification to be designated a critical care paramedic.

The semester course not only gives the paramedics book knowledge "but first-hand knowledge as well" as the students share their work experiences, Houck said. "The great thing is we're getting people from all over the state."

Galtelli said there is a demand for training for critical care paramedics in the state "and having trained personnel will transfer into more demand. There will be a demand for this course for a long time to come." The next session for critical care paramedic training will be held during the fall semester on the Ridgeland campus of Holmes Community College. Women's soccer makes run in state playoffs

The Holmes Community College Lady Bulldog soccer team capped the 2013 season with a berth in the MACJC postseason playoffs.

Holmes finished the season with a record of 8-6-2 and were 4-2-2 in the North Division.

In division action, the Lady Bulldogs defeated Hinds and Itawamba once, split contests with Northwest and East Central, and tied contests with Itawamba and Hinds. In non-division action, Holmes defeated Co-Lin and Southwest twice and fell to Meridian, Pearl River and Jones.

Holmes finished the regular season with a record of 8-5-2 and had a shot of making the MACJC State Tournament by hosting Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College in a play-in game at Freedom Ridge Park. Mara Baker tied the match in the 60th minute but Gulf Coast scored two short-handed goals in the last few minutes of the match to win 3-1 knocking Holmes out of the MACJC State Tournament.

Baker along with Aija Baker and Miranda Gonzalez were named to the MACJC All-State Team. Liz Petro, Sekinah Brown, Emily Chastain and Jenna Ceravolo played in the first-ever MACJC All-Star Soccer Game sponsored by Holmes Community College at Freedom Ridge Park in Ridgeland.

Team awards included: Most Improved Player, Melissa Miller; Bulldog Award, Kelsi Swann; Defensive Player of the Year, Aija Baker; Attacking Player of the Year, Gonzalez; Leadership Award, Chastain; and MVP, Mara Baker.

Men's soccer comes up short in playoff run

The Holmes Community College men's soccer team had a tough North Division schedule this year and finished 2-5-1 in division play and 8-6-1 overall.

In division play, the Bulldogs picked up wins over East Central and Northwest but fell twice to Hinds and split contests with East Central and Northwest, and tied and fell with Itawamba. In non-division play, Holmes defeated Southwest and Co-Lin twice and defeated Meridian and Pearl River once and fell to Jones.

Kyle Davidson and Jimmy Doonan were named to the MACJC All-State Team. Team awards included: MVP, Davidson; Golden Boot, Ryan Olson; Playmaker, Hunter Warren; Sportsmanship, Ryan Hudson; Most Improved, Brad Simpson and Reid Westover; and Leadership, Ryan Harris and James Oliver. Davidson, Oliver, Hudson and Shane Halford played in the first-ever MACJC All-Star Game sponsored by Holmes Community College at Freedom Ridge Park in Ridgeland.

Bulldogs jump out to fast start but miss playoffs

The Holmes Community College men's basketball team started off the season with an impressive 7-2 record but a tough North Division schedule left the Bulldogs fighting at the end of the season for a state postseason berth, which they failed to reach finishing the season 12-10 and 4-7 in division play.

In division play, the Bulldogs split contests with Northeast, Mississippi Delta, Itawamba and Northwest, fell twice to Coahoma and once to East Mississippi. The other East Mississippi contest at Scooba was called with 6:17 remaining in the game to poor floor conditions.

In non-division play, Holmes defeated East Central and Hinds twice and Copiah-Lincoln and Meridian once, split games with Baton Rouge and Southwest and fell to Pearl River once.

Leading scorer this season was Dayshawn Watkins with 13 points per game followed by Tamarico Wilson with 12.4.

Wilson was the leading rebounder with 89 followed by Travis Johnson with 74. Vercel Webster had eight blocks while Jarvis Williams shot 38.5 percent from three-point land and McCleary shot 33.6 percent.

Wilson was named Second Team All-State and was named to the MACJC All-Star Team.

The Lamplighters Program began in 1990 by the Academic Deans Association to honor excellence in teaching. This year's honorees included Ridgeland Campus instructor J.R. Hall, Goodman Campus instructor Ben Lewis and Grenada Center instructor John Wayne VanHorn.

The conference provides an opportunity for recognizing faculty who go above and beyond what is required.

The major objectives of the project are to recognize and reward effective teaching in the Mississippi Community College System and to give effective instructors the opportunity to share with one another those techniques that promote learning.

HEADWAE

Award

Outstanding students and faculty members from 34 Mississippi public and private universities and colleges received special recognition from the Mississippi Legislature during the 27th Annual Higher Education Appreciation Day -- Working for Academic Excellence (HEADWAE) program.

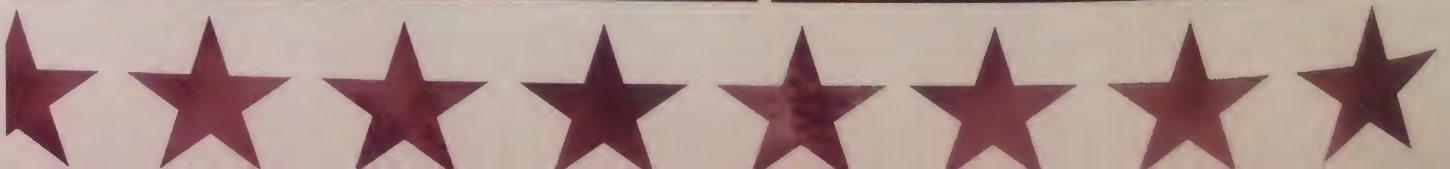

This year's honorees from Holmes were Goodman Campus instructor Jacqueline Bell and Ridgeland Campus student Melissa Singletary Cassagne.

HEADWAE was established in 1988 by legislative resolution to honor individual academic achievement and the overall contribution of the state's public and private institutions of higher learning.

This year's event was held at the Marriott Hotel in Jackson.

2013-14 All-Mississippi Academic Team

Ridgeland Campus Phi Theta Kappa member Tyler Scruton was named to the All-Mississippi Academic First Team while Ridgeland Campus member Elizabeth Evans along with Goodman Campus members Talbot Buys and Andrew Lobell were named to the Second Team at the All-Mississippi Academic Team Recognition Luncheon at the Jackson Convention Center in Jackson.

Holmes in contention for $1 million Aspen prize

Holmes Community College has been recognized as one of the top two-year colleges in the country and is now competing for a $1 million prize.

The Aspen Institute is seeking to reward the best of the best with its 2015 Aspen Prize for Community College Excellence. The Washington, D.C., based education and policy studies organization recently named Holmes among the top 150 community colleges that deliver exceptional student outcomes.

Those top schools are now eligible to compete for the $1 million prize that is considered the nation's signature recognition of high achievement and performance among America's two-year colleges. The award will be announced in early 2015.

"With over 1,100 community colleges nationwide, this invitation speaks volumes about our institution," said Dr. Glenn Boyce, president of Holmes Community College. "It is a recognition such as this that continues to validate the outstanding reputation of our institution.

"We understand that it does not come about without hard work and real passion for student success.," he said.

The Aspen Institute named the top 150 schools after analyzing information from each of the nation's community colleges on student learning, certificate and degree completion, employment and earnings and high levels of access and success for minority and low-income students.

"This opportunity is only given to 150 community colleges nationwide and is based on student achievement and degree attainment," Boyce said. "The award was created to bring attention and focus to high achieving community colleges."

By focusing on student success and lifting up models that work, the Aspen Prize honors excellence, stimulates innovation and creates benchmarks for measuring progress.

"Students matter a lot," said Josh Wyner, executive director of the Aspen Institute College Excellence Program. "They matter to individual opportunity, to social mobility, and to making sure that Americans are driving our economy forward.

"Community colleges are serving a number of important functions. Two of the most important are that community colleges are training students directly for jobs and preparing them for the next step in their education," Wyner added.

As one of the top 150 schools, Holmes has been invited to submit an application for the $1 million prize detailing information on the success of its degree and certificate programs, the labor market outcomes and student learning. The community college will also demonstrate that it delivers exceptional service to all students and show how it has continued to improve in students' performance and success.

Based on the applications, 10 finalists will be named this fall. A distinguished prize jury will select the grand prize winner and finalists with distinction. The Aspen Prize was first awarded in 2011.

Gary Sheppeard

For the last 30 years, Cleveland native Gary Sheppeard has been an integral part of the music department at Holmes Community College.

When Sheppeard came to Holmes in 1984, he was named the band director and served in that capacity until the end of the 2006 school year. During those years, he directed the Holmes Community College Bulldog Marching Band along with the Concert and Jazz bands. Since 2006, he continued serving as a music appreciation instructor and played an active role in the Fine Arts Concert during the spring semesters each school year. He has also served as a contest judge for many years.

He also served as golf coach during his time at Holmes and had several golfers participate in the NJCAA National Tournament.

Sheppeard, a community college product himself, attended Mississippi Delta Junior College graduating with an associate's degree in music. He received a bachelor's degree in music education from the University of Mississippi and also received a master's degree in music education from Arkansas State University.

Before coming to Holmes, Sheppeard served as band director at both Luxora and Mount Ida, Ark. as well as New Albany.

Gary's wife, Gale, also works at Holmes in the Business and Office Technology Department. They have two grown sons, Jonathan and Andrew, and five grandchildren.

Dwight Myrick

For the last 31 years, Dwight Myrick has been a mainstay in the Career-Technical Department on the Goodman Campus of Holmes Community College serving both as an instructor and an administrator. Before coming back to Holmes as an employee, Myrick also left his mark as a student at Holmes.

Myrick came to Holmes as an instructor in the automotive mechanics department in 1978. He then moved into administration as the assistant director of vocational-technical education and became the director of vocational-technical education in 1995 until 2002, when he left Holmes and went to work for Nissan North America. He returned to Holmes in 2007 as the director of career-technical education, where he has served Holmes ever since.

He holds a certificate in automotive technology and an associate's degree in industrial arts from Holmes Junior College. He received a bachelor's degree in industrial arts and a master's degree in education from Mississippi State University.

Prior to Holmes, he did construction work for Associated Pipeline in Houston, Texas and B&W Construction in Greenville. He was also a mechanic and did construction work for Phillips and Jordan in Port Gibson and Arundel-Atkinson and Ball in Columbus and owned the Express Lube and Car Wash in Kosciusko. He was self-employed for a while and worked at Attala Steel in the Kosciusko Industrial Park.

He holds memberships in the Association for Career and Technical Education and is a member of the Career/Technical Officers and Deans Association for the Mississippi Association of Community and Junior Colleges. At Holmes, he was a member of the football and track teams and was a member of the 1973 state championship track team. He was on the president's and dean's lists at Holmes and is a member of the Holmes Hall of Fame and a member of Phi Theta Kappa.

Myrick has four children, Casey Myrick, Corrie Ramage, Kendyl Lang and Dillon Myrick, and eight grandchildren.

Dr. Martha Cofer

Over the past 20 years, Dr. Martha Cofer has spent the time in the Holmes Community College Grenada Center classrooms serving both as instructor, assistant director and academic dean. She spearheaded Grenada's arts push by creating the Grenada Arts Partnership which allows Holmes and committee members from Grenada to bring superior performances to Grenada at Holmes' Grenada Center.

Dr. Cofer came to Holmes in 1994 as a learning and life skills instructor. She has also taught business classes online and served as work-based learning coordinator and assistant director at the Grenada Center before becoming academic dean. She holds a bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Mississippi, a master's degree in vocational industrial education from Mississippi State University, a master's degree in business administration from Delta State University and a doctorate degree in higher education leadership from the University of Mississippi.

Also during her tenure at Holmes Community College, Dr. Cofer designed and developed a Mentor Manual and conducted training seminars for Mentors in the Workplace. In addition, Dr. Cofer established the Work-Based Learning program and worked closely with business and industry leaders and with academic and career technical instructors to achieve mutual goals of an educated workforce for traditional and nontraditional students and for displaced workers.

Dr. Cofer assisted in writing Work Based Learning guidelines for the Mississippi State Department of Education and co-authored the School-to-Work grant application for the Holmes Community College/Grenada School District Consortium. Prior to Holmes, Dr. Cofer worked as the cooperative education coordinator with the Grenada School District and taught business and accounting at Kirk Academy in Grenada. She received three was Teacher of the Year awards with the Grenada School District. She was an active member of the American Vocational Association, Mississippi Association of Vocational Educators, Mississippi Association of Cooperative Education Teachers and the Mississippi Association of Marketing Educators. She spent time at four area accounting firms and was self-employed at Generations III.

Dr. Cofer recognizes that education should enhance the total student and should add to the quality of life for all members of a community; consequently, she has been instrumental in developing and promoting cultural activities through the Grenada Arts Partnership. Through her vision and leadership, Holmes Community College students and members of the community have enjoyed musical programs from the Vienna Boys Choir, Mississippi Symphony Orchestra, U.S. Navy Band, Glenn Miller Orchestra, Motown, Rhonda Vincent, and Marty Stuart.

In addition to her time with the Grenada Arts Partnership, Dr. Cofer has also been involved in the Grenada Junior Auxiliary being named the Woman of Distinction. She received the Red Rose Award from Delta Kappa Gamma, bronze member of the Phi Beta Lambda Foundation and has been a board member of the Grenada Career Tech Advisory Board. Grenada Career Tech Special Population Advisory Board and the Grenada League for Adult Development. She is a member of the Mississippi State Association of Academic Deans and the Holmes Community College Faculty Association.

Dr. Cofer has two children, John and Anne and is the widow of Eddie Cofer. She is a member of the First United Methodist Church in Grenada.

Colophon

The 2014 edition and 85th volume of Horizons is a publication of the Holmes Community College Communications Department and students in both the Horizons and Growl staffs at Holmes.

Walsworth Yearbooks, founded in 1937, is the publisher of Horizons. Walsworth is a leading publisher of scholastic yearbooks as well as a creator of online solutions designed to preserve memories. They are also a world-class printer of speciality books, catalogs and periodicals. Walsworth is headquartered in Marceline, Mo. and has manufacturing facilities in Brookfield, Mo., Marceline, Mo. and Saint Joseph, Mich. Our representative is Ken Tally and our customer service representative is Barb Tschannen. Without their help we would not be able to provide you with a quality publication each year.

Students and faculty headshots were taken by David Vowell Photography. This is a major part of the book, and we are proud of the work that he did for us this year.

This year's yearbook was produced in Walsworth's Online Design software along with Photoshop. The main font used throughout the book was AWPCHelvetica.

Without the help of our clubs and organizations and their sponsors we would not be able to produce a yearbook of this caliber. We also thank the Holmes Community College Board of Trustees for allowing us the opportunity to produce this book on behalf of Holmes Community College, its faculty, staff and students.

If you are interested in being a part of our staff in 2014-15, please don't hesitate to contact District Director of Communications Steve Diffey at sdiffey@holmescc.edu or (662) 472-9068. If you can write, take photographs and do layout and design, please let us know. We could always use the help.
